Facts Against Misrepresentation.
Vague and general assertions, unsupported by facts, prove nothing to the mind of the intelligent citizen who is searching after truth. Abusive epithets applied to public servants convince no one that they are unworthy. Against all these things the people are apt to place official records which tell of services well performed. The esteemed Register, which hates anything Republican with an intense and bitter hatred, and is so blindly prejudiced that it can see nothing good in anything a Republican administration may do, whether it be national, state or municipal, has started in upon its usual city campaign of misrepresentation, distortion of facts and hypocritical pretense.

Yesterday, with the annual statement of the financial condition of the city before it—a statement showing a reduction of the public debt and a handsome excess of receipts over expenditures at the end of a year of extraordinary business depression and other adverse circumstances, our meddlesome neighbor indulged in its regular daily tirade about "rings," and the alleged "incompetency" and "extravagance" of a Republican administration. The opportunity presented to it to make a comparison of the showing made by the present city government with that of the one made by the last Democratic administration, was totally ignored. Facts and figures are what the taxpayers are after, and not unsupported and vindictive assertions.

Comparisons are easily made. The statement issued at the close of the last year of the Democratic administration showed receipts in excess of the expenditures of only $8,976 90, and the net debt $724,277 55; the statement just made by the present administration shows an excess of $27,158 33, and the net debt $644,801 51. According to the Register's charge of extravagance on the part of the Republican administration these figures should be reversed.

The facts behind the figures are more significant. The present administration has been enabled to make this excellent showing after having provided for and liquidated overdue obligations which were left unpaid by the last administration. This indebtedness should have been provided for by the body that created it, but it was not, and the succeeding council was obliged to meet the matter. Had the bills all been paid by the Democratic administration, not only would the statement for the year ending December 31, 1894, not have shown the small balance of $8,900, but there would have been shown a deficiency of something like four times that amount.

That the present administration found a way out of the embarrassing state of affairs which confronted it on assuming control, and has been able in two years to reduce the city debt more than $73,000, and close the year just ended with a balance of receipts over expenditures of $27,000, is, we presume, in the Register's mind, an exhibition of "gross mismanagement" and "rank incompetency."

Our friend, the Register, was fair enough to say a week ago, in its news columns, that the present management of the gas works has been most creditable and is worthy of unstinted commendation. This was brought out by the statement of the gas board, which showed the very gratifying condition of affairs which have been evolved from the very unsatisfactory condition existing when the Republicans took control of the city.

management. An equal amount of frankness on the part of our neighbor would compel it to bear similar testimony as to the other departments.

Hard to Understand.
Ex-United States Senator Henry G. Davis' appearance before the ways and means committee, asking for a restoration of the protective duty on coal, was not unexpected, for Mr. Davis has always been an ardent advocate of protection on West Virginia's greatest industry.

But, in view of his conspicuous advocacy of the McKinley coal duty, so soon after his support of William J. Bryan for President, Mr. Davis is in rather an anomalous position, it strikes us. In supporting Mr. Bryan and in voting for him, he advocated a political change which would have made it impossible to have the duty on coal restored.

Bryan is a free trader of the most radical stripe, and when a member of the ways and means committee which prepared the Wilson bill, was the worst enemy of the coal duty in the whole crowd, going to the extent of declaring that a tariff on coal was wholly unjustifiable. Mr. Davis went down to Washington to protest against the reduction of the duty, and he and Mr. Bryan had a tilt in the committee room. Mr. Bryan chafed Mr. Davis and the general verdict was that Mr. Davis got the best of the boy orator. In fact he completely floored him.

Everybody was surprised when Mr. Davis announced his support of this same Mr. Bryan, who had voted to take from the great industry, in which he (Mr. Davis) is so greatly interested, the protection it demanded. They are not surprised, however, to read of him being in Washington asking for a restoration of the duty Mr. Bryan helped to take off. What they cannot understand is how Mr. Davis could have expected to benefit the West Virginia coal industry by helping to elect Mr. Bryan President.

Some other Democrats are in the same position. They are among the first to look to the Republican party for good American laws that protect American industry, but, somehow or other, when it comes to a political campaign, and they have an opportunity to help the party of protection, they are found supporting the free trade ticket. They kiss the hand that smites them, and spite the friend and preserver of the interests which affect them and those who depend upon them for labor.

The Governor's Message.
Governor MacCorkle's last message to the legislature is a document of great length and exhibits evidence of having been prepared with much care. An abstract is published in this morning's Intelligencer. The greater portion is devoted to a review of the conditions existing in all the various departments of the state government and recommendations of legislation for their benefit. The governor makes a good showing of the progress of the various branches and their management and gives numerous statistics in support of the assertion that they are all on an excellent footing.

An interesting feature of the message is a review of the industrial activity in the state, and interesting and hopeful predictions for the future. Whatever may be said of Governor MacCorkle, it must be admitted that he has at heart the material welfare of the state. He is an enthusiast on the subject of state development, and during his term of office, which is now drawing to a close, he has never neglected an opportunity to exploit West Virginia's wonderful resources and the inviting field she presents for the investment of capital. However we may differ from him in political views, all good citizens will unite in giving him credit for what he has done in contributing to the upbuilding of the state. It is fortunate, and to the credit of the state, that Governor MacCorkle's successor, Mr. Atkinson, will be no less enthusiastic and energetic in this regard than he has been.

Taken all in all, the message is an interesting, if somewhat voluminous document. It is impossible at this time to review all its features.

A Good Beginning.
The Republican majority in the legislature made a good beginning by selecting a splendid set of officers for each house. Without disparaging the abilities and worth of the gentlemen who failed to connect with the places, it may be said that those who were chosen are in every way fit, and will perform the duties of their respective positions in such a manner as will reflect credit upon themselves, the state and the party.

Senator Whitaker, who will preside over the deliberations of the senate, is one of the best equipped men in that body for the position, and Mr. Hanen, the new speaker of the house of delegates, will not disappoint the expectations of the members, who chose him by reason of his experience and ability, two essentials necessary in a presiding officer.

All the other officers selected by the two houses are eminently qualified for the positions and seem to have been chosen with a view to their particular fitness. If the legislature exhibits as much wisdom in the dispatch of its officers as it has shown in the choice of its officers it will be voted a success by the people.

Governor MacCorkle's reference to the coming change of administration is happy. He is not one of those Democrats who are so blinded by partisan prejudice as to think that the handing over of the government to the Republicans means the ruin of the state. He sees just as many patriots in the Republican party as he claims for the Democratic party, and isn't at all worried about the future of the commonwealth. And why should he be? The Republican party started West Virginia on its career of statehood, in a time of storm and gloom. It is abundantly able to take charge of her now and keep her in the path of safety.

New Postmasters.
Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—West Virginia postmasters were appointed today as follows: Glomera, Raleigh county, D. Jones, vice C. Mankin, resigned; Grandview, Raleigh county, A. L. McClure, vice A. J. Carper, resigned.

"I AM an old soldier of the Rebellion. A year ago I was in bed all winter with chronic rheumatism. Three doctors failed to give me relief. Two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters put me on my feet. It is worth its weight in gold." W. B. Knapp, Litchfield, Hillsdale Co., Mich.

If you're a butcher, you want Pearline. You want it for the proper washing of your frocks and aprons, and to keep the benches, blocks, floors, shelves, hooks, etc., as clean as they ought to be. There's nothing that will do this like Pearline. And it takes so little time, and so little trouble and work that there's no excuse for not doing it. Keep everything dainty and sweet and clean with Pearline.

Send it Back. Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

JAMES PYLE, New York.

THE LEGISLATURE.

There are lots of statesmen at Charleston to tell the legislature how to do it. Perish the thought that any are there as lobbyists. They are "lawyers," or "newspaper men," or "educators," or "office holders," or something equally harmless. But the railroads, county officers, fee grabbers, and other watchful guardians of the people's rights will be kept posted.—State Journal.

It is apparent that some of the Democrats now that they fully realize that the positions which have so long been held by them in the institutions of this state are soon to fall into the hands of others, are growing desperate and are indulging in all kinds of prophecies as to the position the Republicans will take as to some of our state institutions. We hear it predicted that our town is to lose her school. This we are glad to know comes from the Democratic side of the house, only, in fact, it will only tend to unite the Republicans to work for the success and maintenance of the school—Concord Watchman.

There seems to be an opinion prevalent that the corporations enjoying the good things given by the state in the way of franchises and privileges, have not and are not making proper returns in the form of taxes, and that the scheme will be revolutionized at this session, the burden taken from the agricultural people and a portion of it added upon the holders of stock in the great companies of the state. Of course this will precipitate a big fight. The corporate bodies will not permit such legislation if they can prevent it. All that a large and properly equipped lobby can do will be to do so to retain the present system and basis of taxation. While on the other hand, the strength of numbers will probably be on the side of the reformers.—Sistersville Oil Review.

Among the important measures to be considered at the coming session will be a bill providing for the abolition of the fee system in all state and county offices and the substitution of stipulated salaries, all fees to be turned over to the state. A bill will also be presented providing a new system of paying criminal charges by creating a state fund from which all criminal charges are to be paid when due.—Point Pleasant Register.

IMPRISONED WITH TARANTULAS.

Extraordinary Experience of a Parkersburg Man Locked in a Box Car.
A St. Joseph, Mo., dispatch, of January 11, says: James Payne, of Parkersburg, W. Va., passed through this city last night on his way home from Portland, Ore. He was accompanied by his wife, to whom he was married a few days ago.

Two months ago Payne started for the Pacific coast. On the train, between Green River and Pocatello, his pockets were picked. He was even unable to telegraph home for money, and determined to make his way through by the box car route. On the second night of his stay at Pocatello a westbound special pulled in, in which were several fruit cars. He climbed into one that was filled with bananas, making himself as comfortable as possible. He had scarcely concealed himself before the door was closed and sealed. He went to sleep, and when he awoke it was to find himself in darkness with the train in motion. He had been aroused by something soft and velvety creeping across his face. He struck a match to see what had disturbed him, and to his horror he saw several large tarantulas.

Payne fainted, and when he revived it was broad daylight and the train was still speeding onward. He tried the door to find it fastened. The straggling rays that penetrated the cracks of the door enabled him to see dimly the objects about him and he recognized his situation. His fears were increased when he saw that the tarantulas had engaged in deadly combat among themselves. For hours he sat there facing the creatures, which neither advanced nor retreated. The night came on and again he became unconscious. When next he knew what was going on about him he was on a cot in a hospital in Portland. He had been there a month, and had gone through an almost fatal attack of brain fever. Meanwhile the authorities, having discovered his identity, had telegraphed to his people, and the young woman he was to marry had hastened to his bedside. He had not been found until the car was opened at its destination, when he was unconscious and raving like a maniac. A mark in his forehead indicated that he had been bitten by a tarantula, probably when he fainted the second time. As soon as he was able to travel he started for home by easy stages, first having married the woman who had joined him under such peculiar circumstances.

When Grandma Used Slang.
New York Tribune.
Grandmother sat in her easy chair. With the autumn sun on her silver hair, the tip and down again, to and fro. Her dear old hands made the needles go. Every day she would finish a sock. At exactly a quarter of five o'clock, indefatigable was she. Till the bell would ring for crumpets and tea.

People would come and go, and say: "The good old lady looks well to-day." And they'd ask if she ever took socks to darn. But she'd go right on with her ball of yarn. At last a drummer came up the creek and yowled he would make the old lady speak. "So you're nothing all day but at And fool with those needles!" She answered: "KID!"

A NEW DISCOVERY BY THE SHAKERS.
For more than a hundred years the Mount Lebanon Shakers have studied the cultivation of medicinal plants and sought to extract from them their healing essences. Their labor has not been spent in vain. They have made a discovery that will prove a blessing to mankind. It consists of a cordial that causes immediate relief in cases of indigestion. The importance of this discovery will be apparent when we realize that nearly nine-tenths of our sufferings are caused by dyspepsia or indigestion. Nearly every person you meet has this digestive trouble in some of its varied forms—sick headache, distress after eating, pain and fullness in the chest after eating, palpitation of the heart, etc., are but symptoms of indigestion. To relieve these sufferings has been the study of the Shakers, and they have succeeded. The reason the Shaker Digestive Cordial has such an immediate and salutary effect is that it causes the food eaten to be digested, for it is undigested food that causes the distress. The Cordial causes the food to be digested before there is time for it to ferment and sour on the stomach. When the food is so digested it gives strength and vigor to the feeble body, makes one feel bright and cheerful, and makes one gain in flesh.
The Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that the very first dose will have a perceptibly favorable result. It gives immediate relief.
Every druggist has been sent a supply of our handsome Donkey Puzzle Books, and a copy may be had for the asking. It tells all about the Cordial as well as Laxol, the new castor oil.
Try a twenty-five cent bottle of Digestive Cordial and see what it will do for you.

For Your Protection.
Catarrh "cures" in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by cold and damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages. Cold in the head, if repeatedly neglected, results in catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug.
Rheumatism Cured in a Day.
"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits.
T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and two doses of it did me more good than any medicine I ever took."

A NEW DISCOVERY BY THE SHAKERS.
For more than a hundred years the Mount Lebanon Shakers have studied the cultivation of medicinal plants and sought to extract from them their healing essences. Their labor has not been spent in vain. They have made a discovery that will prove a blessing to mankind. It consists of a cordial that causes immediate relief in cases of indigestion. The importance of this discovery will be apparent when we realize that nearly nine-tenths of our sufferings are caused by dyspepsia or indigestion. Nearly every person you meet has this digestive trouble in some of its varied forms—sick headache, distress after eating, pain and fullness in the chest after eating, palpitation of the heart, etc., are but symptoms of indigestion. To relieve these sufferings has been the study of the Shakers, and they have succeeded. The reason the Shaker Digestive Cordial has such an immediate and salutary effect is that it causes the food eaten to be digested, for it is undigested food that causes the distress. The Cordial causes the food to be digested before there is time for it to ferment and sour on the stomach. When the food is so digested it gives strength and vigor to the feeble body, makes one feel bright and cheerful, and makes one gain in flesh.
The Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that the very first dose will have a perceptibly favorable result. It gives immediate relief.
